

BY FAITH
By Paralee Eadie

By faith all nature does proclaim
The promises of God.
They look not at the winter's dark
Or the frozen, snowy sod.

By faith the lilac sets her buds
While icy winds do blow,
Waiting for the warmth of spring,
Trusting God to make it so.

By faith the birds sing in the night
Before the break of day,
Knowing that God will bring the light,
Chasing the darkness away.

By faith the crocus pushes up
Through a blanket of snow,
Blooming while winter rages on,
Proclaiming it isn't so.

You, too, can sing in the dark
And bloom through frozen sod.
Just learn all nature's lesson,
Look up, have faith in God.
