

Our little KB had Kawasaki,
A bad disease which is yucky-yaki!
But Jesus said, "Don't worry, PRAY,
For I can take it all away."

So people all across the land
Prayed and asked Jesus to take KB's hand
And help him get well and take all the tests
That his doctors thought would be the best.

KB was so brave. He did so well.
Went through all the tests really swell.
The tests were done. All was okay.
Our KB is well. Hip hip hooray!

Jesus helped the doctors and KB too,
Do all the things they had to do.
THANK YOU, JESUS! You made KB mend.
We love You, Jesus. You're our best friend!

This was written for my grandson, Caleb, better known as KB, after a bout with a rare malady known as Kawasaki disease. You have a time-frame of 10 days to diagnose and begin treatment, because after that it does not respond to treatment. Since it's so rare, diagnosis is often not made until it's too late. KB was diagnosed on day 9! Treatment involves blood transfusions and huge doses of aspirin at strategic points in the treatment. Kawasaki can leave a child with permanent heart damage. Recovery time is long and slow, but KB pulled through with no permanent damage. Amazingly, there was a good side effect from the transfusions. KB has asthma, and we had been praying that God would heal that. It turns out that if someone with asthma gets a transfusion from someone who does not have asthma, it can help the recipient's asthma to become less severe. It did just that for KB. So never stop praying. Have faith in God for He truly answers prayer.
